¹If the Reserve Bank does not receive all of the information requested within 20 business days after the date the Reserve Bank sent the Bank's Claim of Late Return to the paying bank, the provisional credit given the claimant and the debit to the paying bank's account will become final. In that case, the paying bank may be able to recover the amount of the item from the claimant if the return of the item was in fact timely, but the paying bank must deal directly with the claimant. Knowingly making false statements to influence the action of a Federal Reserve Bank may subject the signing party to criminal penalties under federal and/or state law.
